

American 'Capital'

Spend it wisely

by Phyllis Austin, Founder-In my Shoes, Inc

The election of Barack Obama is manifestation of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s dream that all of God's children, who are American citizens, one day will be judged by the content of their character.

The focus on Senator Barack Obama's redistribution of wealth was divine. McCain's Joe the plumber tactic was in line with God's plan – the average 'Joe' would look at redistribution of wealth as money.

Nonetheless, on November 4, 2008, at approximately the same time President Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation, God made the biggest redistribution of wealth to all American citizens. God gave all American citizens 'American capital'.

How will you spend your 'American capital'? It is my hope and faith that one, with this American capital, will spend it on moral and social values, some of which are listed below...

to the young...

- choosing to be educated (and not disrupt classrooms)
- understanding that sex comes after relationship, love and marriage to the older...

- working for what you want
- establishing strong, healthy, loving families and relationships
- having children born in unconditional love, wedlock and commitment to the parents...

- teaching their child their history
- nurturing and supporting their child
- supporting, sustaining, and maintaining the family to all...

- being self reliant, responsible, and servicing mankind

American capital, at its very least, is money.

American capital, at its very highest value, is the acceptance that all Americans can and should be judged righteously by the content of their character.

to all Americans...

- Your character is your choice
- Spend Your 'Capital' Wisely

Phyllis Austin

Founder of In My Shoes, Inc

www.inmyshoes.org

paustin@inmyshoes.org